Hi Amy, I'm coming up for air after a few crazy days, and just tried to call. Chromalloy has picked a new consultant for the Site, and we would like to have a meeting with you and the team as soon as practicable to discuss status. From speaking with Phillip Allen that I understand the position on EE/CA vs. RI/FS, and that there is no room for further negotiation of our prior EE/CA proposal from your standpoint. We would like to understand where things stand with other PRP's, and whether the agency is looking to others to perform or participate in the RI/FS process. Once I better understand that, we will be in a position to respond quickly, and/or re-start the Special Notice process.

Amy,

I tried to call. Recognizing that Monday is a legal holiday, let's try to talk Tuesday morning.

Bill:

As relayed in a voice mail to you yesterday, January 26, 2016, the EPA is not willing to accept your proposal to perform an EE/CA for the Delta Shipyard Site. Our management would like for Chromalloy to follow our normal process as set forth in the statute and regulations for a Site on the National Priorities List. In accordance with the statute and regulations, Chromalloy must perform a Remedial Investigation and Feasibility Study to determine the extent and nature of the hazardous substances. Once an RI/FS has been performed, we will explore options for Site remediation. Please let me know by February 15, 2016, whether Chromalloy is willing to perform an RI/FS as outlined in the draft AOC and Statement of Work provided to you previously. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Amy Salinas
